11. Introduction

Off-ice officials are considered an extension of the on-ice officiating team. In order for the game to run smoothly, a good group of off-ice officials are necessary to assist the on-ice crew.

EIH are committed to ensuring that off-ice officials across the sport of ice hockey in England and Wales are well-equipped to fulfil their roles and are meeting minimum standards required for their position. To ensure all off-ice officials are qualified to a minimum standard, EIH have developed a framework to enable off-ice officials to obtain their EIH licence. In addition, EIH are committed to developing off-ice officials and provide a range of recommended professional development opportunities, alongside ensuring all off-ice officials keep up to date with changing regulations and practices.

Appendix 11b: Announcer guidance

Announcers are there to inform the supporters of both teams of goals, penalties and general rink announcements. Announcements are allowed to get the crowd involved in the game and most home rink announcers are there to assist and get the home supporters to support the home team. There are a few guidelines, we ask you to adhere to:

Ice Hockey prides itself to be a family sport, please be mindful of the music that played. Please do not play music with bad language and music that is deemed racial, sexist or homophobic. This also counts during player warm up. Please check the music a team gives you to play during the warm up.

Please respect the opposition. Announcements must not make rude or derogatory comments about the visiting players, officials, families or fans, even in jest, or even if you know them on a personal level.

You are expected to make the following announcements:

- Goals with the appropriate goal type (see below). If a player is sponsored in some way this also acceptable to be announced:
 - Even Handed
 - Powerplay
 - Short Handed
 - Delayed Penalty Goal
 - Penalty Shot
 - Penalty Goal
- When announcing goals for away teams, it is common courtesy to read out their names and numbers, not just the numbers.
- If you are unsure of the pronunciations of some of the players' names ask a member of the team for assistance before the game starts.
- When announcing goals whilst play is in progress, only announce the Goal Scorer and the players that assisted and any relevant sponsors to that player. DO NOT START crowd chants. You are only to announce the scorer, assists and time and type of goal.
- Penalties: these are to read out as promptly as possible. When announcing multiple penalties on both teams, the home team penalties are announced first.
- Please be aware that when you have a player serving a 2+10 penalty or a coincidental penalty. When the penalties that are shown on the scoreboard have finished and the you still have players serving penalties in the penalty box. These are to be announced as "Team A, returns to 5 skaters" this is because the team is not at full strength as there are players that are serving penalties when the Penalty Boxes are empty, a team has returned to full strength .
- When a player returns to the ice after a penalty has expired. The announcement that the player has been released from the penalty box, should happen immediately and without a delay.
- Period timings:
 - The final minute of the first and second periods – these are to be announced as they are written
 - The final two minutes of the third period – this is to be announced as "We are now in the final two minutes of the third period" or "We are now in the final two minutes of regulation time." We do not say the final two minutes of the game as we may be going into overtime or any other way of announcing the final two minutes. We also DO NOT announce the final minute of the third period.

- The final minute of overtime (if being played)
- End of game:
 - At the conclusion of the game when the Man of the Match presentation is completed and you have a few more club presentations to read out. POLITELY ask the visiting team to leave the ice. DO NOT use phrases like “Can you please hurry up and get off of the ice, as we have other presentations to make”.
 - You can still make in game announcements for 50/50, Shirt of the Back and Rink Safety announcements etc
 - We ask that you make other presentation after the away team has left the ice.
- Recommended in-game announcements:
 - Supporters moving during play: please ask fans not to leave their seats or walk in front of other supporters whilst the game is in play. This can be dangerous as the puck could come out of play and cause injury.
 - Fan Photography: this is allowed as long as the Flash/Light are turned off. Live streaming of NIHL games is only allowed by the teams. Any supporter caught doing this should be asked to stop streaming, if caught a second time. Please can you remove from the arena.
 - General Safety and In-House Rink announcements

If you use a Master of ceremonies (MC). The same rules apply. The MC must carry out the same duties as the game announcer. They must announce goals and penalties and when players return to the ice for both teams not just the home team. As if they were a game announcer. They are not to make announcements during play and start fan chants when making announcements.

Listed below are some script ideas to use during the game. Remember to speak slowly and clearly.

Appendix 11c: Timekeeper guidance

11c.1 Pre-game

If there is a minute's silence/celebration before the opening face-off, under no circumstances is this to be timed on the scoring device, this is extremely disrespectful, especially if the horn goes off when the clock reaches zero. If the pregame countdown is going to reach zero either during the minutes silence or national anthem. You are allowed to pause the clock, to stop the horn from sounding. Most people have a smart phone, please use a countdown app on the device to time the minutes silence and let the announcer know when to start the National Anthem discreetly.

There is a five-minute grace period for events of national importance. These include:

- Remembrance Sunday
- The Passing of a member the Royal Household, or a Sitting Prime Minister.

All NIHL teams must implement a 60-minute countdown to games so that visiting teams know when they are due to be on the ice for warm-up and game start and to also makes sure that games start at the published Face Off Times.

Please see below for a running schedule. This countdown needs to be displayed in the scoreboard pregame. Failure to start a game on time means the team holding up game start time will be assessed a two-minute delay of the game penalty, unless deemed a reasonable reason with the referee.

11c.2 During game play

Please remember that five-minute penalties are not to be removed from the scoreboard until they are fully completed, the offending team remains short-handed until this penalty is completed.

If your scoreboard can show 10-minute penalties, please can you show this and explain to the player when their penalty will finish and wait until the next break in play to release them from the box.

When a time out is called by an on-ice official. The time out is to be displayed on the game clock/scoreboard if your clock has a “Time Out” function.

11c.3 Period breaks

The period break starts immediately after end of a period and can last between 12-18 minutes (15 minutes is the standard) these need to be the same for both period breaks. You cannot have a period break that is 15 mins at the end of the first period and 18 mins for the period break at the end of the 2nd period, due to an on-ice event or competition.

The period break timings are shown. Failure to start a game on time means the team holding up game start time will be assessed a two-minute delay of the game penalty, unless deemed a reasonable reason with the referee.

Table for game period break countdown

11c.4 Stacked penalties

This explains the procedure when there are three or more players in the penalty box at any one time.

The minimum number of players in the ice is three players and one netminder.

If you are lucky enough, your scoreboard can stack penalties within its memory. Team A, player Number 6 receives a 2 minutes penalty for Hooking at 06:24. This penalty is shown as normal on the scoreboard. the during the same shorthanded period. Team A, player number 16 receives 2 minutes tripping penalty at 06:54, this is also shown on the scoreboard at the same time. Team A, Player 65 receives a 2 min unsportsmanlike conduct penalty. This penalty becomes stacked, but stored in the memory of the scoreboard.

Team A receive no further penalties during this passage of play. The penalty on Team A, Player Number 6 ends. This player cannot return to the ice unless there is a whistle on the play, As the stacked penalty on Team A, Player 65 is now on the scoreboard and as you have 2 players on the scoreboard. There should now be 3 players on the ice still. If there are no more penalties called, or other stoppage of play. Team A, Player 16 can return to the ice when the penalty reached zero as the team would then be back to 4 skaters as there is only 1 penalty on Team A on the scoreboard. Team A, Player 65 penalty can run as normal and the player can be released once the penalty has expired. Team A, Player 6 has to sit until there is a Whistle.

If you have 4 or more players in the box. Players who have a penalty that expires and another penalty goes onto the scoreboard have to wait for a whistle on the play for them to return to the ice
